

Bandaloop's Rose Huey talks about safety Monday, April 17, 2023, during a Bandaloop residency with the Lehigh University Dance Team at Zoellner Arts Center in Bethlehem. The performance, 'Loom: Field,' is part of a trilogy of large-scale, outdoor public vertical dance pieces that turns a building's facade into a giant loom where stories and dances interlace. Based in Oakland, Calif., Bandaloop says it honors nature, community and the human spirit through perspective-bending dance. The company trains dancers and youth at home and on tour, and says it has performed for millions of people in over 22 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Americas and Asia. (April Gamiz/The Morning Call)

Lehigh University Dance Team and Bandaloop workshop | PHOTOS

By APRIL GAMIZ | abartholomew@mcall.com | The Morning Call
April 17, 2023 at 5:57 p.m.

Lehigh University Dance Team member Brooke Goldin and Bandaloop members warm up Monday, April 17, 2023, at Zoellner Arts Center in Bethlehem. The performance, 'Loom: Field,' is part of a trilogy of large-scale, outdoor public vertical dance pieces that turns a building's facade into a giant loom where stories and dances interlace. Based in Oakland, Calif., Bandaloop says it honors nature, community and the human spirit through perspective-bending dance. The company trains dancers and youth at home and on tour, and says it has performed for millions of people in over 22 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Americas and Asia. (April Gamiz/The Morning Call)

Bandaloop's Rose Huey and Jose Abad talk about safety Monday, April 17, 2023, during a Bandaloop residency with the Lehigh University Dance Team at Zoellner Arts Center in Bethlehem. The performance, 'Loom: Field,' is part of a trilogy of large-scale, outdoor public vertical dance pieces that turns a building's facade into a giant loom where stories and dances interlace. Based in Oakland, Calif., Bandaloop says it honors nature, community and the human spirit through perspective-bending dance. The company trains dancers and youth at home and on tour, and says it has performed for millions of people in over 22 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Americas and Asia. (April Gamiz/The Morning Call)

Bandaloop's Rose Huey talks about safety Monday, April 17, 2023, during a Bandaloop residency with the Lehigh University Dance Team at Zoellner Arts Center in Bethlehem. The performance, 'Loom: Field,' is part of a trilogy of large-scale, outdoor public vertical dance pieces that turns a building's facade into a giant loom where stories and dances interlace. Based in Oakland, Calif., Bandaloop says it honors nature, community and the human spirit through perspective-bending dance. The company trains dancers and youth at home and on tour, and says it has performed for millions of people in over 22 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Americas and Asia. (April Gamiz/The Morning Call)

Bandaloop members warm up with Lehigh University Dance Team members Monday, April 17, 2023, at Zoellner Arts Center in Bethlehem. The performance, 'Loom: Field,' is part of a trilogy of large-scale, outdoor public vertical dance pieces that turns a building's facade into a giant loom where stories and dances interlace. Based in Oakland, Calif., Bandaloop says it honors nature, community and the human spirit through perspective-bending dance. The company trains dancers and youth at home and on tour, and says it has performed for millions of people in over 22 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Americas and Asia. (April Gamiz/The Morning Call)

Lehigh University Dance Team member Olivia Nunamaker and Bandaloop members warm up Monday, April 17, 2023, at Zoellner Arts Center in Bethlehem. The performance, 'Loom: Field,' is part of a trilogy of large-scale, outdoor public vertical dance pieces that turns a building's facade into a giant loom where stories and dances interlace. Based in Oakland, Calif., Bandaloop says it honors nature, community and the human spirit through perspective-bending dance. The company trains dancers and youth at home and on tour, and says it has performed for millions of people in over 22 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Americas and Asia. (April Gamiz/The Morning Call)

Bandaloop members meditate with Lehigh University Dance Team members Monday, April 17, 2023, at Zoellner Arts Center in Bethlehem. The performance, 'Loom: Field,' is part of a trilogy of large-scale, outdoor public vertical dance pieces that turns a building's facade into a giant loom where stories and dances interlace. Based in Oakland, Calif., Bandaloop says it honors nature, community and the human spirit through perspective-bending dance. The company trains dancers and youth at home and on tour, and says it has performed for millions of people in over 22 countries in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Americas and Asia. (April Gamiz/The Morning Call)

Lehigh University Dance Team and Bandaloop workshop

Tags: Photos and Videos, Vertical Photo Gallery

April Gamiz | Visual Journalist

April Gamiz is a visual journalist for The Morning Call.

abartholomew@mcall.com

Follow April Gamiz @_aprilb_